

The Pond

Tucked behind hundreds of trees, lays a house, and in front of that house lays a pond, and in that pond lays a floating water trampoline. This pond and trampoline provide my cousins and me hours of enjoyment on those hot summer days in Connecticut. The pond may not be natural, in fact my uncle, being the construction genius he is, dug it, but it sure is beautiful and very serene. The water trampoline is one of my favorite activities to do at the pond. You can jump on that for hours on end, without getting bored, but besides just jumping you can slide and jump off the trampoline and drop directly into the water. This time my cousins and I spend in the pond is a true bonding experience and is something I always look forward to when summer rolls around.
